Personal Profile

Positive, motivated, and highly adaptable professional with a strong analytical mind and excellent problem-solving abilities. Skilled at recognising patterns, managing multiple priorities, and delivering results under pressure. Experienced in recruitment, relationship management, and business development, with a proven ability to build strong connections with candidates and clients while driving performance and efficiency.

I am now looking to transition into a different sector within recruitment, where I can apply my recruitment experience, business development skills, and relationship driven approach to a new market and continue developing long term within the industry.
